The Room 217 Foundation is a health arts organization dedicated to changing the culture of care with music. Room 217 produces and delivers music care products, provides education, training, and consultation for integrating music into care practices, and care settings, and collaborates in applied music care research. Room 217's music care approach is about using music with intention, allowing the therapeutic principles of sound and musical effect to inform us. Music care integrates sound, silence and music into the circle of care, and aims to enhance well-being and quality of life and care for all people. www.room217.ca
